What is Advanced Placement?

The Advanced Placement (AP) Program offers a variety of college-level courses that present high school students with the opportunity to gain the skills and experience required and recognized by colleges and universities. Successful completion of an Advanced Placement course can yield significant benefits for high school students who plan to matriculate through a post-secondary institution.

The following topics will be addressed during the informational meeting:

- Selecting Advanced Placement courses
- Characteristics of successful Advanced Placement students
- Benefits of Advanced Placement courses
- Support resources for Advanced Placement courses
