The system has 38 elementary schools, 15 middle schools, one K-8 school, eleven (11) high schools, one alternative school, three psychological education centers, and a multi-purpose education center. We are culturally rich with nearly 22 percent of our students speaking a language other than English. English Learners are 10 percent (approximately 5,000) of our student population, speaking 72 diverse languages.

Clayton County Public Schools participates in the Community Eligibility Provision (CEP). CEP is a meal service option for schools and school districts in low income areas which provides students with meals at no cost.

Additionally, our half-billion dollar budget supports an infrastructure that employs more than 7,000 individuals, making the district one of the largest public sector employers in Clayton County.
