JONESBORO- Clayton County Public Schools (CCPS) is excited to share with all stakeholders that CCPS Board of Education Chair and Representative of District 3, Ms. Jessie Goree, will participate in the “A Call to Action for ALL Teachers to talk about COVID-19” virtual panel discussion today, June 16, 2020. To be held at 7:00 p.m., participants will be able to join in the conversation by sharing their thoughts and questions relative to returning to school for the 2020-2021 School Year!

Organized by State Representative Sandra Scott, District 76, the Zoom discussion is designed for educators across the metro Atlanta counties to discuss COVID-19 and returning to school in the fall. In addition to Ms. Goree, other panel guests include Erika Mitchell, Atlanta Board of Education District 5; Annette Edwards, Henry County Board of Education District 5; and Dijon DaCosta, DeKalb County Board of Education District 6.

“It is always a great thing when you have a collaborative approach to addressing challenges that will impact the lives and decisions of so many,” said Dr. Morcease J. Beasley, Superintendent/CEO of Schools. “Like many school systems, our district continues to work through our plans regarding the upcoming school year, however, we are pleased to be extended an opportunity to participate in state-level dialogue with surrounding districts that showcases our progress toward navigating the complexities of the COVID-19 pandemic. We certainly thank Representative Scott for providing this platform to our district and we thank our Board Chair for representing our school system in this discussion.”
