CCPS Issues an Alert for Potential Inclement Weather Conditions

JONESBORO – Clayton County Public Schools’ (CCPS) leadership is sharing a report from the National Weather Service indicating that serious weather may affect our area this evening, August 31, continuing overnight and into the morning of September 1, 2021. The system, remnants of Hurricane Ida is expected to produce possible tornados, thunderstorms, higher than normal winds, and substantial rainfall. There is the potential of some flooding in low-lying areas.

Students and families are advised that transport to and from school as well as meal delivery and curbside grab-and-go service will be available as usual Wednesday, September 1. District officials remind students and families of possible interruptions or delays caused by weather conditions that could cause a loss of power at school sites or road conditions that could prevent buses from traveling to their usual stops.
